Jimmy Coats, Executive Director

It's been a good run! It's time to let someone else take charge and make all those interesting decisions.

As my retirement draws near, I must reflect on my last ten years as executive secretary of the AOA. I have had the opportunity to work with three great associates, Jerry Hall, Glen Siler and now Don Brodell. These men have all done an outstanding job working with officials throughout the state. Each one has had his own style and goals for the AOA and adjusted as change dictated.

The AOA Executive Committee members I have worked with over the years have brought many new and innovative ideas to officiating across the state. They have always been willing to work with the staff and their district officials to ensure that the best officials in the state were working region and state events. They have known what the players deserved and made that their goal.

Don Brodell continues to provide the leadership needed to make officials in Arkansas the most professional and well trained possible. The officials in the state need to follow his leadership and take advantage of every opportunity to learn and mature as officials.

Thanks for all of the support and kindness shown me during my tenure at the Arkansas Activities Association. Continue to show this support to Lance Taylor and Don Brodell as new challenges and changes arise.

Don Brodell, Associate Executive Director

As another school year ends, we must start preparing for another one to begin. There will be a change next school year in our office. As most of you know, Mr. Jimmy Coats is retiring and Lance Taylor will take over as our Executive Director. Joey Walters has joined our staff and will take Lance's position and become the rules interpreter for basketball and conduct the basketball rules meetings across the state this fall. I will still be assigning basketball officials for regional and state play-offs, and I will take over as the rules interpreter for football.

Speaking of Mr. Coat's retirement, I want to thank Jimmy for the support and guidance he has given me in the six years I have been with the AAA. Being an official himself, he understood the challenges of officiating and worked with the AOA Executive Committee to improve officiating and better open the lines of communication between schools and officials. The AOA has become a stronger and more professional organization in his tenure as Executive Director of the Arkansas Activities Association. Lance will follow in Jimmy's footsteps and continue to work with the AOA and our Executive Committee to strengthen the organization for years to come.

Listed in this issue is information for summer camps and clinics. Please take the opportunity to attend one. We have some outstanding instructors dedicated to helping officials improve and eager to share their knowledge and expertise to those willing to learn. Now is the time to take a new official and mentor him/her. We were all rookies at one time; it's time for us to give something back and be willing to work with new officials and give them some of the same opportunities we received.

Don't forget the Hall of Fame Banquet and golf tournament on Friday July 21. We have a very deserving class entering the HOF; this should be an outstanding weekend. The Statewide Football Clinic will be Saturday July 22 at the Hot Springs Convention Center. Please make plans to attend.

Have a great summer and continue to work hard to improve your skills.

Managing staffs ranging in size from two to 10 and budgets as large as $1.6 million, he has proven time and again he knows what it takes to get the job done right.

As an avocation, even with his heavy workload, Webb found time to serve as a high school basketball and football official for more than 25 years. During that time, he officiated more than 2,000 basketball games and over 400 football games, and worked nine basketball state tournaments; working the finals seven times. He was recognized as the 2000 National High School Federation Basketball Official for Arkansas.

Starting in 1987, he worked NCAA Division I basketball – working more than 250 games at the sport's highest amateur level. Although retired from officiating in 2001, he's still involved in support and education of the officiating profession.

He served until this season as an evaluator of officials for the Southeastern Conference – the country's most prominent basketball conference, and still assigns officials for Arkansas's 7A-West Conference.

Perry and his wife, Rebecca, reside in Springdale. They have three children – Amanda and Sarah, both students at the University of Arkansas, and Bartley, who just graduated from Springdale High School and is attending the University of Notre Dame.

2006 Volleyball Rules Changes

2-1-4 Note: Clarifies the centerline court marking may be a shadow line which designates the required 2 inch centerline. Rationale: The rule requires a centerline which extends from sideline to sideline. The new addition to the rule, provides for flexibility when schools are re-lining the gymnasium floor. This notation allows a shadow line to designate the required 2-inch width by use of borders or outlines at least a ¼ inch wide, which shall lie within the 2-inch width.

2-2-2: Cables used to retract a ceiling-suspended net system and located only on one side of the net are playable overhead obstructions. Rationale: When a cable system is used to retract a ceiling suspended net system and cables are only on one side of the net and serve only to retract the net system this retracting cable is a playable overhead obstruction only on the side of the court where the cables are located.

4-2-3f: The placement of numbers on the center front of the uniform top may now be located no more than 5 inches below the bottom edge of any neckline, ribbing, placket or seam. Rationale: It was found that numbers being anywhere from three to five inches below the neckline when centered were clear and visible. More flexibility in this area will allow visible numbers to be legal which previously may not have been legal. This change does not make any existing legal uniform illegal and does not change the requirement if the number is on the upper left/right of the uniform top. Some uniforms previously illegal may now become legal.

10-4-1,2,3,4,5 New: Clarifies and defines when, how and where a libero replacement takes place, when the replacement is illegal, redesignation of the libero, proper procedures for handling exceptional substitutions and disqualifications involving the libero. Rationale: The position of the libero is now a part of the competition rules.

5-4-1d: Specifies the umpire shall verify the line-up has been entered correctly on the scoresheet by the official scorer. Rationale: Previously, errors have been made transposing the lineup from the coach's lineup sheet to the official scoresheet. Verification of the transfer of the lineup to the scoresheet by the umpire prior to the match will eliminate these mistakes.

5-6-1, 2 & 3: Officially adds the position of the assistant scorer (libero tracker) due to addition of libero play. Responsibility is to record libero replacements. Location at score table is next to official scorer. Rationale: The assistant scorer shall report to the referee 20 minutes prior to the match, be seated at the officials table next to the scorer and assist the officiating team with all libero tracking duties. Although a separate position is preferred, it is acceptable for the official timer to serve as assistant scorer.

6-3-2, 4-2-1 & 2, 5-1-1;5-5-2, 6-3-3a, 9-9-1: The rules relating to the libero have been changed to place the items in more appropriate sections of the rules. Further clarification has been included in the rules to incorporate uniform numbering location of libero at moment of serve; game administration and penalties involving unnecessary delay. Rationale: Previously all rules relating to the libero were contained in Rule 6-3, Player Positions. Many of the items in the rule were not related to player position. Rules relating to the libero have now been placed within more appropriate locations in the rules which address specific play, uniforms etc.

7-1-1b: The designated libero for the match shall be identified on the team roster. The libero may be listed with two uniform numbers with the first as the non-libero number and the second as the libero number (i.e. 15/L4). "The libero number may not be a duplicate of any other player on the roster." Rationale: The libero must be designated for match play. This is done by listing an "L" before the uniform number of the libero. To assist schools in the supplying of a libero uniform top without unnecessary costs, the libero may have two uniform numbers appear on the roster.

9-5-1c; 9-5-5: Definition of a block is changed to having a player close to the net who is reaching higher than the net and deflects the ball coming from an opponent. "Block attempt," "completed block," and "collective block" are defined. Back-row players may not complete a block or collective block. Rationale: The previous definition of a block created play situations in which officials were judging intent. In some situations the action of a back-row player who was no where near the top of the net was considered to be attempting a block and this action play was illegal. Current coaching strategy does not have back-row players not capable of blocking attempting the block and taking them out of play. Further, such action would not affect play with no contact with the ball. "Completed and collective" blocks and "block attempt" are now defined. Judging intent is removed in the new definition.

9-5-6: Specifies during play those player actions which are not legal for the libero. This placement puts libero player action with other player actions in Rule 9. Rationale: All player action, including libero, will be more easily located by officials and coaches in Rule 9.

12-2-6: Allows the head coach to stand in the libero replacement zone during any dead ball to instruct his/her players. The privilege is lost and the head coach must remain seated as outlined in 12-2-5 if a card is issued to anyone on the team bench. Rationale: Rules 9 and 12 require the coach to remain seated during a game except for a few situations (listed in 12-2-5). 12-2-6 now allows the head coach to stand during any dead ball to instruct his/her players. Once the referee extends the arm in preparation to beckon for serve, the coach must be seated. If the head coach or any other coach/team personnel receives a card, the head coach will lose the privilege to stand.
